CASSIDY

Caron

Cassidy Caron was president of the Métis National Council from 2021-2024. She previously served as Provincial Métis Youth Chair and Minister Responsible for Youth at the Métis Nation of British Columbia. She prioritized fostering engagement and leadership opportunities for Métis youth. With expertise in Indigenous justice, women's safety, and community-based research, Caron is committed to restoring accountability, advocating for Métis self-determination, and promoting transparency and good governance within the MNC.

"Whether it's meeting with federal cabinet ministers, strengthening self-governance for the Métis Nation, or talking to Métis citizens, I remain humbled and grateful that I have been entrusted to carry out this incredibly important work."

-Métis National Council, 2022
